General Information

What Is the Full Employment Credit?

Legislation provides for a Full Employment Credit (FEC) to provide paid work experience and on-the-job training. Qualified employers may claim the credit for months of eligible employment beginning on or after November 1, 1995.

What Is Eligible Employment?

Eligible employment is the number of full calendar months a participant has been employed after any state subsidy paid to the qualified employer for employing that participant under the FEC has expired.

Who May Claim the Credit?

Every qualified employer who participates in the Full Employment Program and continues to employ a participant for at least one full month after any Full Employment Program subsidy for that participant has expired may claim the FEC. Qualified participants and employers are those who participate in the Full Employment Program under the rules of the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA).

How Do You Compute the Credit?

A qualified employer may claim the FEC equal to $100 per month of eligible employment per participant. The maximum amount of credit that may be claimed in all taxable years with respect to each participant is $1,200.

Are There Limitations to the Credit?

Yes. The FEC may not be applied to reduce any minimum excise under Ch. 63. Also, a qualified employer that participates in the filing of a combined Massachusetts return of income may apply the FEC against the portions of the combined group's excise liability attributable to the qualified employer, determined in accordance with the provisions of 830 CMR 63.32B.1(8), and not against the excise liability of other group members. In determining the amount of the FEC allowable for a taxable year, the 50% limitation imposed by Ch. 63, sec. 32C does not apply.

Can the FEC Be Used in Combination with Other Credits?

Yes. The FEC may be applied in combination with other credits allowed under Ch. 63 or sec. 6 of Ch. 62 in any order.

May Excess Credits Be Carried Over From Year to Year?

Yes. Any portion of the FEC that cannot be applied in a taxable year may be carried over to the next taxable year, for a maximum of five successive taxable years.

Special S Corporation Rules

A qualified Massachusetts S corporation employer taxable in any year under Ch. 63 may take the FEC for the taxable year against either or both the income or non-income measure of the corporate excise. Alternatively, the credit from such taxable year may be passed through to shareholders on a pro-rata basis. These alternatives are mutually exclusive.

If an S corporation claims the FEC for a taxable year against its corporate excise liability, any unused credit from that year may be carried over by the S corporation only and applied only against its corporate excise liability for a maximum of five successive taxable years.

If an S corporation passes the FEC for a taxable year through its shareholders, any unused credit from that year may be carried over only by the shareholder and applied only against its Ch. 62 personal income tax liability for a maximum of five successive taxable years, regardless of whether the shareholder maintains an interest in the corporation in the taxable year in which the carryover credit is applied.
